The object of the work is to give the child an appreciation of the holidays and of all events that appeal to young children. With this end in view there should be given Jewish legends, fables, folklore stories, simple biographies of great Jews, and interesting stories connected with American Jewish history. In these grades the pupils are interested in story only, and the teacher will have to content herself with impressions. The main task is to create interest and enthusiasm for things Jewish. The stories will also give an opportunity to suggest, develop, and establish in the pupils those moral and religious...
