Dec. 14th.--Convalescence had been exceedingly slow; ulceration of the bowels having set in, and with difficulty been subdued by means of Nitrate of silver and Opium, and successive blisters on the abdomen. There was considerable emaciation with urgent dyspepsia. February 14th, 1848.--Had no pain in the epigastrium; appetite and digestion good; bowels habitually costive. To have change of air and regular exercise. Bemarhs by Mr. Bishop.--The cases of poisoning by this substance, which is now commonly used in the arts, are rare; no antidote is pointed out in toxioological works. But the first object is evidently to get rid of the poison; second, to decompose what cannot be thus got rid of. The first object is to be...
