Excerpt from Proceedings of the General Anti-Slavery Convention: Called by the Committee of the British and Foreign Anti-Slavery Society, and Held in London From Tuesday, June 13th, to Tuesday, June 20th, 1843 It is stated by the Committee of the British and Foreign Anti-Slavery Society, in their Report of the proceedings consequent on the last Convention, that, The idea of holding a Convention of the philanthropists of various countries for the purpose of promoting the universal Abolition of Slavery and the Slave-Trade, was a novel and a bold one. A second experiment having been made, the novelty has passed away, and the response with which the call of the Committee met on both occasions, proved that the bold idea had only to be clothed in language, in order to call forth the sympathies of the brightest ornaments of humanity. But however august may be such an assembly, - however sublime the object at which it aims, - however benevolent its designs, - however judicious the plans devised, - however eloquent the addresses delivered, - however fervid the...
