During that period, being destitute of a temple, and deprived of public religious services, they were wont to meet together for prayer and praise, and reading the scriptures, see Ezek. xiv--1. xx--1. Nehem. vin--18. When they returned to their own land, it is not improbable but they continued the same means of grace. They were doubtless aware, that all their calamities had befallen them by reason of their sins, and as sin and iniquity prevail in proportion to the neglect or ignorance of God s word, these synagogues appear to have been set up for the purpose of instructing the people, by preaching and reading God s word, as well as for public prayer and praise. These synagogues were exceedingly...
